Does Vietnam have new feed-in tariffs for solar power? April | Southeast Asia Impact Alliance

Vietnam is taking another step toward modernizing its renewable energy sector by unveiling updated feed-in tariffs (FiTs) for solar power, with a notable emphasis on encouraging battery energy storage systems (BESS). What is a tariff rate in Vietnam? Tariffs are taxes imposed on imported goods and services. Currently, the tariff rate for 20% applies to imports from Vietnam. This represents additional costs that importers pay when bringing goods into the United States from Vietnam. Furthermore, this rate can change based on trade agreements, economic conditions, and government policies. Why is Vietnam introducing a battery storage tariff? By incorporating battery storage into the tariff structure and providing higher maximums for facilities with BESS, the government is attempting to address the technical limitations that have accompanied Vietnam's rapid solar expansion in recent years. What if importing goods from Vietnam is subject to 20% tariff? When importing goods from Vietnam subject to the 20% tariff rate, businesses must ensure proper compliance with customs regulations. Vietnam's Ministry of Industry and Trade (MOIT) has announced a new round of feed-in tariffs (FIT) for solar power, introducing location-based pricing and, for the first time, incorporating energy storage systems. Why does northern Vietnam have higher feed-in tariffs? While Northern Vietnam benefits from higher feed-in tariffs (FiTs) due to lower solar radiation, the overall system still operates on capped tariffs rather than market-based auctions. This may limit the agility of Vietnam's energy market in responding to investor needs and evolving technology costs. The United States will maintain at 20 percent the reciprocal tariffs, as set forth in Executive Order 14257 of April 2, , as amended, on originating goods of Viet Nam, and will also identify products from the list set out in Annex III to Executive Order 14346 of September 5, , Potential Tariff Adjustments for Aligned Partners, to receive a zero percent reciprocal tariff rate.
